

— CONNECTED RESPONSE FOR PRIVATE SECURITY

NO POST HELD ALONE.

A lanyard safety button with two jobs. One alerts your supervisor. The other reaches 911 with the post's location.

SECURITY CONTRACTOR STARTER

Everything for the first year.

$3,999

- ✓ Five G2 safety buttons, yours to keep
- ✓ Cellular service included, no data plan per button
- ✓ E-911 with your post's location
- ✓ Training for your officers

Renewal locked in writing: years 2 and 3 at $2,343 a year. About $2.19 per person per day in year one. Order by December 31, 2026.

12x

Security guards faced 95 violent crimes per 1,000 workers a year, against 8.0 for all workers. About twelve times the rate. Only corrections officers were higher.

Two buttons, two jobs

A press of the side button alerts your supervisor. The E-911 button takes several deliberate presses, so it is not set off by accident.

Help knows where to go

E-911 alerts go out through RapidSOS with the post's location.

Nothing to install

No wiring, no servers, nothing left at a client site. The buttons run on their own cellular, not the client's Wi-Fi. Worn as an ID badge, charged by USB-C about every 90 days. Charge life varies with use.

HOW IT WORKS

- 1 An officer on a solo post presses the button.
- 2 Your supervisor gets a real-time alert on their phone.
- 3 For an emergency, the E-911 button reaches 911 with the post's location.

Two buttons. Worn as an ID badge.

Also available: wall-mounted panic buttons for a guard shack or lobby desk. These require installation and a network connection.

PREPARE TODAY. PROTECT TOMORROW.

Security officers face one of the highest rates of workplace violence of any occupation measured. No OSHA standard tells a guard company how its officers reach help, but the risk factors are written down.

— WHERE THE FACTS STAND

- Violent crime: security guards faced 95 violent crimes per 1,000 workers a year from 2015 to 2019, against 8.0 for all workers. Only corrections officers were higher among the occupations measured.
- Lost time and lives: security guards lose work time to violence by another person at about eight times the rate for all occupations. In 2024, 44 of the 64 security guards who died on the job died from what BLS classifies as violent acts.
- OSHA names working alone or in small numbers, working late at night, guarding valuable property, and contact with the public as workplace violence risk factors. There is no specific federal OSHA standard for workplace violence; the General Duty Clause applies.
- Washington requires security guard employers with isolated employees to adopt a sexual harassment policy and train those guards on panic button use. Licensed contract guard companies are exempt from issuing the button itself; isolated in-house guards at hotels, motels, and retailers must be issued one.

— COMMON QUESTIONS

Who owns the buttons?

You do. They are a one-time purchase in year one.

What does a supervisor see?

A real-time alert on their phone when the button is pressed.

Do the buttons need the client's Wi-Fi?

No. Each button has its own cellular connection, and the service is included.

What about patrol officers who move between sites?

E-911 is set up for one post, and 911 receives that post's location, not the officer's live position. Your supervisor can see where the officer is in the G2 Communicator if someone is monitoring it. Ask us about patrol routes.
